Strangvac is back in stock on all launched markets

Stockholm, December 6, 2024 – Intervacc AB (publ) announces that Strangvac®, a vaccine against equine strangles, is now back in stock for delivery in all European markets where the vaccine has been launched.

The company applied for Special Batch Release (SBR), to allow for the recently manufactured batches to be available for sale. Today, the company can announce that after receiving approval for SBR in all local markets, Strangvac® is available for immediate delivery in all markets where the product has been launched.

The procedure and processes, including the Special Batch Release, have been different in different countries, and the time required to make Strangvac® available again in the various markets has therefore varied.

"We are very pleased that the Medical Products Agencies around Europe have acted diligently, which has made it possible for Strangvac® to be available again for immediate delivery." commented CEO Jonas Sohlman.
